To secure a challenging role in a professional environment, utilizing my educational background, strong work ethic, and willingness to take on new responsibilities to contribute to the success of the company.

Projects

PERFORMANCE EVALUATION OF AUTOMATIC VOLTAGE REGULATOR (Final Year Project)

This is a project where we can improve the performance of AVR with the use of controllers and other elements, which causes the continuous flow of constant power to the electrical appliances, to avoid the damage of electrical equipment. This project is completely done through the MATLAB simulation. This project helps to get constant input power to the electrical devices and protect them from the sudden electrical failures.

Stock Price Prediction

Stock Market price prediction is an essential and challenging task in finance. Machine learning algorithms provide a powerful tool to predict stock prices accurately. In this project, we aim to develop a stock market price prediction using machine learning techniques.

Online examination system

The Online Examination System is a web- based application developed using HTML, CSS and a database. It provides a convenient and efficient platform for conducting exams online, eliminating the need for traditional paper-based examinations. The project is a webpage where students can write exams and quizzes
